

Nature and Freedom in Kant: A Conference in Honor of Paul Guyer
Brown University, Alumnae Hall, Crystal Room
25-27 October 2013

On the occasion of Paul Guyer's 65th birthday, Nature and Freedom in Kant examines Kant's philosophy in light of Guyer's contributions to Kant interpretation. Guyer's unparalleled output covers nearly all aspects of Kant's work. He offers an interpretation of Kant that centers on freedom in nature through evaluations of transcendental idealism, aesthetics, ethics, political philosophy, teleology, and systematicity.

Some conference papers confront, other extend, and others are inspired by Guyer's work. Sessions with commentators are particularly designed to elicit discussion of Guyer's interpretations. Guyer will conclude the conference with a reflection on his work in Kant's practical philosophy.

Information about travel, lodging, venue, and the group dinner as well as the detailed schedule are available at the conference website "natureandfreedom.org".

The conference is hosted by Brown University and supported by the Department of Philosophy, Dean of the Faculty, and the Cogut Center for the Humanities at Brown; the Department of Philosophy at University of Pennsylvania; The Franklin J. Matchette Foundation; The Goethe Institut, Boston; and the German Academic Exchange Service.
